Thomas, Nathaniel, Charles, Jeremiah, William and John Hays with their sister Mary Hays Busey and LeMaster kindred about 1738 went into the wilderness of upper Prince George Co. as pioneers.

Prince George's County then embraced all Western Maryland. At Bethesda, Montgomery County just outside the District of Columbia on the Frederick Pike there is a statue to the heroic women and children who went into the frontier wilderness in the 18th Century. The Hays family settled on Senaca Creek and its branches not far from Little Monocacy River near Sugar Loaf Mountain in what is now a most beautiful and smiling country. Their descendants became substantial and well known citizens of the counties into which the original Prince George County was divided-Frederick, in 1748 Washington and Montgomery in 1776.

The proof that Thomas, Nathaniel, Charles, William, Jeremiah and John Hays were brothers is obtained from the sources mentioned below.

Thos. Hayse...Adm. and Executor...Nathan'l Hayse Nov. 28, 1742/44. Nathaniel, John and William Hayse are mentioned as brothers. (Adm. Accts., Prince George County, Liber D.D. 1 Fols. 320, 457)

Nations have their documents, States have their archives, Cities have their ordinances and resolutions, and families have their records.

A good many families have failed to keep their records, some families are still neglecting it, while others have become interested.

The best time to employ a Genealogist is at the begining of a search.

The place of beginning is the known, and then to the unkown. If you see a note that you think might be of future help, take it, but be slow in accepting it as yours.

No set time can be safely set on completing a full family history, nor can an estimate satisfactorily be made upon the cost. A time basis is best. Some of the families are easier to compile than others. Only fragments here and there can be found on others.

Some persons have searched for a single date many years and in the end were successful, while others after spending years and a large amount of money could not make the connection or find the date.

A client has to be a good sport when he sets out to find his ancestors.

No genealogist can guarantee a successful search, but they may guarantee a thorough investigation.

Some time a whole year's work can be written on a single sheet of paper.

Many Genealogists have had their bills for service dishonored on the ground of quantity. The clien: expected a bushell where their ancestor only left a quart.

Many family histories have been written up, some by able Genealogists, and others by amateurs

. Most of the printed articles are only in part, some written by the family historian are rather full but they lack references to the sources, and tradion glow on many pages; this is why printed family histories cannot always be accepted as authentic. There are some exceptions.

BIBLE RECORDS.

Any person wishing to have their family bible records printed, send a typewritten copy to the editor of this publication, with a year's subscription. The publishing of this record would insure it against fire or other loss.

MICHAEL FAMILY

OF WESTERN MARYLAND.

Contributed by members of the family from their family Bibles.

TRADITIONS.

Some think that this family settled in Loudoun County. Loudoun Co., Va. records have not been searched.

Philip Jacob Michael came to America in the Snow Neptune from Lisbon, Portugal, and qualified, or took the oath of Allegiance on July 27, 1770. He settled in Lancaster County, Pa., and appears not to have taken up land until the year 1785 when we find him with 100 acres in Northampton County, Pa. with two horses and three cattle.

In the 1786 Feberal Tax List we find him in the same County, and the last entry is in 1788 when he is taxed 1£ 7s 2d he at that time being located at Bethlehem Township, or the section in which he had this land received that name by that time.

It is thought that he came to Maryland shortly after this time and settled at Aarons Run in what is now Allegany County, but then called Lands westward of the Cumberland, being one of the original settlers. (Scharf's History of Western Maryland p. 343.)

In 1797 he purchased lots Nos. 3879 and 3880 in Allegany County, Md. and had patented on Nov. 11, 1797 (Liber J. C. No. M. Folio 308, Land Office, Md.) In Nov. 1800 he patented "Womocks Defeat" 178 acres (Liber J. C. No. P. folio 72)

He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War and served in the Pa. Line.

EARLY SETTLERS OF MARYLAND 1634-1684.

FROM AN EMINENT HISTORIAN.

Dr. WILLIAM HAND BROWNE DIVIDES MARYLAND SETTLERS INTO SIX CLASSES.

Messrs Editors:

As to the character and status of the early colonists of Maryland have been recently discussed in your columns perhaps the following statement will be of interest:

The Colonists of Maryland may be divided into six classes.

- 1. The "Gentlemen Adventurers" These persons who transported themselves at their own expense, usually bringing their families and "servants" (that is working people) with them. In perpertion to the number of persons so brought, they received grants of land, under certain conditions, which may seem to be the various "Conditions of Plantations". published in the Maryland Archives.
- 2. Immigrants from colonies, among whom are included the refugees, Puritans and Quakers from Virginia. These, no doubt, came in on the same terms as the Adventurers.
- 3. The Servants, or working people, Puritans and Quakers from Virginia. These worked for their employers for a specified term (at first four years, after wards raised to five years for adults, with longer terms for minors,) after which they became Freemen, had votes and were eligible to office. At the expiration of their term of service their employers were bound to give to each a piece of land, farming tools, clothes, etc. according to what was known as the "custom of the country" and may be seen defined by law in the Archives.

The "Redemptioners" as they were later These were voluntary immigrants, who, being unable to pay their own passage, made a contract with the owner of the ship, or some other party, to serve for a specified term in the colony. The indenture had always a clause providing for its redemption for a certain sum within a certain time. At various ports in the United Kingdom there were offices where these redemptioners were received and their indenture assigned to some merchant in Maryland, who sold the man's sevice on his arryal. An abstract of on these indentures, in my possession, of interest. In it Peter Folliet, Hairdresser, contracts with Arthur Bryan, of Dublin, declareing that "of his own Free-will and consent he covenants, after his arrival in America. to serve during the term of three years in such service and employments as the said Arthur Eryan shall employ him, according to the custom of that country" "in the like kind" Bryan covenants to pay his passage out, and to find him meat, drink, apparel, lodging and other necessaries during the said term. and at the end of said term to pay him the usual allowance according to the custom ofthat country...

The redemption clause provides payment of 112 7s. 6d. within fourteen days of his arrival the contract shall be void. The indenture is assigned to Messrs Stewart & Plunkett (Maryland Merchants) and bears their indorsement.

or victs. In the reign of both Elizabeth and James I, acts were passed for the deportation of vagrants and offenders to the "Plantations" There are no statistics of these, and it is impossible to estimate their numbers, but they could not have been great in the seventeenth century. In the eighteenth century, however, they became more numerous.

The extraordinary ferocity of the laws, which prescribed the death penalty for even the the slight offences, was mitigated in multitudes of cases by a commutation to transportation to America or to the West Indies: but even here there are no statistics and no data on which to found even a guess as to their number, nor as to how many remained in the country and how many returned when their term of exile was expired.

6th. The sixth class was convicts, who, to cur minds, stand on a different footing. These were the political prisoners, of whom large numbers were sent to the plantations after the supression of Monmouth's Rebellion in 1684, and the Jacobite risings in 1715 and 1745. Many of these were gentlemen of good families, and they were regarded, in America very differently from the criminal convicts. Their term of service was seven years, and they were bought by speculators, who shipped them to their agents in America, where their services were sold by auction or otherwise. Partial lists of these are in existence.

To these six may be added a seventh class, the victims of kidnapper and crimps. The trade in servants being lucrative, a nefarious practice grew up in kidnapping or inveigling young men and women and shipping them off to the plantations with the connivance of a rascally captain, who shared the booty. There are many references to this villany by the writers of the eighteenth century, for example, in the "Vicar of Wakefield."

There were also many persons who came at their own cost, who did not take up land, but settled in the towns, where they exercised their callings.

From these facts it is plain how idle it is to speak of the settlers of Maryland as belonging to any particular class.

The Early Settlers List published in this Bulletin comes down to 1634.

THE DAY FAMILY OF "TAYLOR'S MOUNT" GUNPOWDER RIVER.

By William B. Marye

Nicholas Day came to Baltimore County about the year 1693 from Anne Arundel County. In that year and the year following he bought four hundred acres of land on the head of Bush River. It is practically certain that he lived on these tracts which were contiguous. 1696 he bought one hundred and fifty acres in the Fork of the Gunpowder, which descended in his family for about fifty years, Nothing definite is known of Nicholas Day before he came to Baltimore County. He was a man of at least ample means when he came to live on Bush River. He died in The maiden name of his wife Sarah 1705 or thereabouts. is not known. She survived him many years, dving in 1737.

Nicholas Day left two sons, Nicholas and Edward Day. He left two daughters. One of them Dinah (or Diana) Day married Mr. Joshua Merriken of Gunpowder River, whose home was near where Magnolia Station now is.

Nicholas Day (II) married Elizabeth Cox, daughter of Christopher Cox, and had a numerous family. It is not my intention to follow this line. He lived in Joppa; but had plantations elsewhere. He died about 1739.

Edward Day was probably born in Anne Arundel County; and came with his father to Baltimore County in 1693. have no proof of this, however. He may have been born at the head of Bush River. He married, 22 May 1722 Avarilla Taylor, daughter of Mr. John Taylor of Gunpowder River. This statement made in the Chancery Court Proceedings in connection with a tract of land "Arthur Sott," which she had inherited, that she was the daughter of Thomas Taylor is wrong. There is any amount of evidence that she was the daughter of John Taylor. She inherited his lands; also his patent for a resurvey of Arthur's Sott says that she was the daughter of John Taylor. Further - there is an indenture in which it is stated that she was the daughter of John Taylor; and another indenture in which it is said that she was the granddaughter of Arthur Taylor, father of John Taylor. Lastly there is a deposition, which states that Edward Day (her son) was the grandson of John Taylor. Of course there is no need of such proof. I merely give it to show how abundant it is.

I will now trace the known history of the Taylor Family. John Taylor came to Maryland before 1659, perhaps a number of years before. On the fourth of January, 1650 he demanded land in right of twelve persons whom he was about to transport into the province. Among them were Arthur Taylor (his eldest son), John Taylor, Robert Taylor and Mary Taylor, his children.

John Taylor was a justice of the first court held for Baltimore County in 1661. He was again a justice in 1665; and was probably a justice at many other courts. He is called "Mr. John Taylor" and "John Taylor, gentleman." In 1661 he surveyed two tracts of land on Gunpowder River: "Taylor's Mount" and "Taylor's Choice."

Taylor's Mount is at the mouth of Bird River, and "Taylor's Choice" lies across the river and is the land on which Joppa afterwards was built. He lived for a time at "Taylor's Choice." In 1661 he was in a fight with the Indians. recorded in the Archives. Both of the above tracts he finally sold; after which he probaby lived on the land of his son Arthur Taylor in Gunpowder River. He died in 1678 or therabouts.

John Taylor left five children: Arthur, John, Robert Mary, and Elizabeth. Mary Windley of Bird River a branch of Gunpowder, whose name is still perpetuated in Windley's Run (Windlass Run) which falls into Bird River on the East Side. Elizabeth Taylor married (If I am not mistuken) Richard Sims of Gunpowder River. John Taylor Jr. is hard to trace. Robert Taylor surveyed "Taylor's Delight" on Gunpowder Powder River. He left no issue, it appears.

Arthur Taylor was a fairly prominent citizen of the county. He was constable of his hundred, and grand jury man. He surveyed much land on Gunpowder River and its branches. Who his first wife was, the mother, I suppose, of his children, I am unable to say. He married (secondly, I believe) Frances Smithers, a widow, mother of several children, one of them, Richard Smithers, married a daughter of Colonel George Wells.

Arthur Taylr died in 1692 or thereabouts. Two children survived him, Anne Taylor, and John Taylor, the later the subject of this paper.

Anne Taylor, only daughter of Arthur Taylor, married (1st.) James Greer of Bird River, and (2ndly) Lawrence Richardson of Bird River, a brother of Col. Thomas Richardson. By both husbands she had several children.

John Taylor, father of Avarilla Day, was a man of some He was Deputy Surveyor of his County under Col. Thomas Richardson, and later under Col. John Dorsey He was elected a delegate to the assembly at Annapo-He is styled "Gentleman" and Mr. John Taylor. was the mother of his two children I am unable to say at present. His second wife was Elizabeth Heathcote, widow of William Pickett and mother of Heathcote Pickett, famous as a Tory Spy. Besides numerous other tracts he owned and lived on "Taylor's Mount" which was ed for his grandfather, John Taylor, though he did not in herit it from him. In the year 1726 he conveyed "Taylor's Mount" to his son-in-law Edward Day; but probably contin-"Taylor's Mount" is still in possession ued to live there. of the Day Family (1913). The date of John Taylor's death is not know. A deposition says that he went to North Carolina to live. when middle aged. and that it was not then known whether he was living or dead.

John Taylor had two children, only one of them survived him, his daughter Avarilla Day. A son Arthur Taylor died at his brother-in law's, Mr. Edward Day's in 1728 (as I remember the date — have not note to hand.)

Averilla Taylor inherited all her father's lands. Edward and Averilla Day had a number of children. Edward Day was a socially prominent man, and a man of wealth. He acquired other lands adjacent to "Taylor's Mount." In 1750 there was in possession of his son Edward about six hundred and fifty acres all in one tract. which land is now almost all possessed by the present Edward Day his descendant.

Edward Day of "Taylor's Mount" died in 1747 or therabouts. Avarilla Day, his widow, married (20th. April 1747) Patrick Lynch of Baltimore County, who was kinsman of Marcus Lynch of Galloway, Ireland, merchant, whose name occurs repeatedly in the proceedings of the Baltimore County Court about the year 1685 and later.

Edward Day, son of Edward Day and Avarilla his wife was born 20th. February, 1729. He inherited from his father "Taylor's Mount" and lands adjacent. He was a man of wealth. His administration bond is for the sum of fifty thousand pounds. If he was worth that amount, he must have been one of the richest men in the county. He died in 1779 or thereabouts. The story goes that he died from the kick of his horse which was being shod at his own private blacksmith shop at "Taylor's Mount" as he was preparing and about to start for the war. He is buried in the old family graveyard at Taylor's Mount, his gravestone being the oldest one in the place.

The above Edward Day was twice married. His first wife was Anne Fell, a daughter, I believe, of Mr. William Fell of Baltimore Town. His second wife was Rebecca Young, a daughter of Captain John Young, and a niece of Col. William Young, both of Calvert County, but afterwards of Baltimore County. Her grandfather was Mr. William Young a member of the Assembly and High Sheriff of Calvert County. He married Rebecca Bourne, daughter of Major Samuel Bourne of Great Eltonhead Manor, Calvert County.

The remainder of the Day genealogy I have not in my possession, excepting the line of the the present Mr. Day of Taylor's Mount.

OBITUARY OF ROBERT POOLE, 1818-1903.

In the death of Mr. Robert Poole, of the Robert Poole & Son Company at Baltimore, in January 14, 1903, the City of Baltimore lost a prominent citizen, and the engineering profession a notable figure.

Robert Poole was born at Maghera, County Londonderry, Ireland, May 26, 1818, and came to this country at an early age.

The support of a widowed mother, a younger sister and brother curtailed his opportunities for a liberal education, and forced him at an eary age to seek employment in the machine shop connected with the Lanvale Coton Mill, which was located near the present site of Union Station. Here he was afforded many opportunities by the management because of his williness and desire to do all he possibly could.

A change in ownership of these mills, however, necessitated his moving to Savage, Maryland, where he was employed in a machine shop engaged in manufacturing Cotton Mill Machinery of English design. He soon became dissatisfied with the limited advantages of the Savage shops, and obtained employment in the works of the late Ross Winans, near the present site of the Mt. Clare shops of the B. & O. R. R. These works were then very busily employed in building locomotives for the Russian Government, and other Roads of this country. At this early day, even in the face of advantages offered by the proprietors of these works, Mr. Poole considered it would be better for him to begin business in a small way for himself.

After working hours he constructed the patterns for a small upright engine, had the castings made, and finally the engine completed, useing a wooden post as a frame. With this engine for a motive power he started a small machine shop on Holliday Street, when he was about twenty-three years of age. He had the misfortune to be burned out a few days later, but nothing daunted he gathered to gether what remained of his engine and a few tools, patched them up and started again.

His pluck attracted the attention of several who assisted him and who gave him their orders. Business increasing he formed a partnership with William E. Ferguson, a Scotchman, and they continued in business until July, 1851, when Mr. Poole bought the interest of Mr. Ferguson, and formed a partnership with German H. Hunt, under the name of Poole & Hunt, which firm continued for forty years. Mr. Hunt withdrew in 1889, and the business was then incorporated under the name of Robert Poole & Son Co.

Shortly after the firm of Poole and Hunt was formed their shops on North Street were destroyed by fire, and seeking a larger field for their growing business it was decided to remove to Woodberry, then a small village a few miles north of Baltimore, where extensive workshops were laid out and built, primarily for the manufacture of locomotives, but the financial depression of 1853 so seriously affected the Railroad prospect that this idea was abandoned, and the attention of the concern was directed to other lines. The works built at that time were considered very extensive, but have since been greatly enlarged and increased, until the present engineering plant stands with but few equals in its equipment.

Mr. Poole was recognized early in his career as a mechanic of more than ordinary ability, and his judgement in solving practical problems which were often presented to him by those having manufacturing establishments, soon made his advice sought for and filled his shop with work.

He saw the necessity of a higher standard of accuracy in measurement than prevailed at that time in the shops of this country, so early in the sixties his firm imported a set of Whiteworth gauges, and began a shop system of gauges and standards that are in these days recognized as necessities in all first class shops.

He fully recognized that faulty workmanship would in the end redound to the disadvantage of the concern, and he was always unflinching in his desire and determination to carry out to the greatest exactness the fullest requirements of his contracts. In doing this he had no regard for expense. What was right was first with him, and right it would be even if it was to his financial disadvantage.

Mr Poole was a stricking personality, appreciated by all associated with him. A man of rather slender physique he was an indefatigable worker, an untiring thinker; an eye keen and penetraiting; a mind clear, lucid, capable of great concentration; features some what stern in repose.

but not unkind; in demeanor calm, collected, dignified; the embodiment of nervous force; strict without austerity. he impressed those who knew him as having in himself the elements that make for success. A good judge of men and a great manager bimself. It is not surprising that he accumulated a competence., a not inferior portion of which went to charity. In the funeral address, his pastor, who had know him thirty years, said in part "Three things of value Mr. Poole has achieved. He built from its foundation a great business, and was master of it. Others have achieved larger, but none, better results. He accumulated a fortune and was master of it, and he used it as he believed it would accomplish the largest measure of good. He was not unmindful of the community in which he dwelt, but was solicitous for, and active and generous in secur ing its intellectual, moral and religious interests. movement for bettering its condition which commanded his approval, had his hearty and generous support. Alone he provided the elegant building now occupied by the Enoch Pratt Free Library, and thus gave to the community facilities for entertainment and culture equal to the best."

Mr Poole was married in 1841 to Miss Ann Simpson. Five daughters and one son survive him.

Mrs. James E, Hooper,
Mrs. George W. Thompson,
Miss Annie Poole,
Mrs. Robert P. Simpson,
Mrs Orlando Crease, of Philadelphia, Pa.
Mr. George Poole,

under whose management the business has been conducted for years, will succeed, and the business will continue.

While in later years the burden of the more arduous duties of the business rested on others, Mr. Poole was until the last week of his long career, at the age of 85 years, actively interested, and in close touch with every thing connected with the works.

He was buried, Saturday afternoon, January 17, in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore. A large concourse of friends and employees attended the ceremonies.

INDEX TO THE GRIFFITH FAMILY. By Rumulus Riggs Griffith, Jr.

This index was made by Edward Hammond.

IN EXPLANATION

Always look at the page with "f" after it, for complete family. m. indicates marriage.

F when placed after a page number, indicates the page on which a marriage is recorded, - but if the "f" is not necessarily always used, the birth and marriage are often recorded on the same page.

In many cases where a person has more than one given name, -recorded in one place, - in other places, -only one of the given names is used, and often only one initial. I have endeavored to always use the full name. Example — John A. Chiswell m. Eleanor Griffith, p. 160.

On pages 160, 161, 162, where the marriage of his children are recorded, the A, is omitted, and John is given.

Dennis Griffith's daughter Elizabeth Greenberry Ridgely, p. 178 m. Rev. Ethan Allen, p. 181, on p. 179 where her daughter Elizabeth m. Henry Chas. Gassaway, she is named only "Elizabeth Griffith," and on pages 182 & 183 where the marriage of her son Ethan Jr., and her dau. Rachel Alice, are recorded, she is named simply "Elizabeth"

And so with Philemon G. Griffith, son of Philemon and Sarah Crabb, on p. 13, - on page 74 he isgiven as Philemon C. Jr., and his mother as "Sarah G.,"- and on page 198 Philemon C. is given as "Philemon Crabb", and his mother as "Sarah" simply.

In the "Griffith Genealogy" at the Maryland Historical Library, certain notes have been inserted: and so in this index, where "Md. His." is placed after a page number, as, 46 Md. His. it is to be understood as being a reference to those said certain notes.

The family name "Wilson" is also spell'd Willson, and so with Mathews, and Matthews.

Ann, Anna, Anne, Annie, -any two of then are often given in the text, to the same person. These differences so often prove to be very confusing, but if one will consult the dates, and the number given to each child, in a family list of children, it will be found to be quite simple.

INDEX TO GRIFFITH GENEALOGY

I have endeavored in this index, to make it quite easy and simple to run lines to or from the progenitor, William Griffith, Sr. who m. Sarah Maccubbin, and I hope that I have succeeded, in some measure in accomplishing that end. 30 March 1935

THE SURNAME TRADER.

From a letter written by Mrs. Milnor Ljungstedt to Mr. Arthur Trader, 13 April, 1929.

Dear Mr. Trader:

"You have, it appears, an absolutely unique name, either in the old form or the present...for it appears neither ever existed! (as names of record.)

First, the best English authorities give "Trader only as having been used in the form of "John the Trader" as not being "John the Farmer" As a name in the numer ous lists, it does not exist

And there is no Armitrader or Armitrading, or any form of it in the English lists, or in any of the German or Scandivanian lists that I could handle. It was not a name.

The most learned work is a thesis by a Swede, which was read and probably discussed at Uppsala (at one time my husband's father was judge there) and was printed in 1916. It is by Thorvald Forssner. He finds in early English records, that is in the 1200's and so, a name, which seem to be a woman's name, ERME(N)TRUDA. (He inserts the ("N"). She was Ermetruda, uxor, of Kent, 1272. In 1256, still in Kent apparently, the same name "uxor." In 1216, he was Ermetruda Thalebot. In Lincoln in the time of Edward. I, Ermentrudis. And the Countess of Chester was Ermentrudis. There was one who was wife of Ricardi before that. And then a reference I cannot understand ... "Ermentruth MRS." I think those initials stand for something learned.

You will wonder why I struck this Ermentruda.. it was because he refers to "Armen" to Ermen" &c. And it is very likely that the "E" was like the "A" in "Air". And also very probably that Armitrader was pronounced with the same kind of "A." To get an idea of the old pronunciation you should hear a London boy. I don't mean that he talked as the middle ages talked, but that it gives you an idea of the way English as spoke can vary.

I see that I have not given the title of Forssner's Thesis ... It is "Continental Germanic Names in England." (L. C.- CS F6 2507)

MARYLAND GENEALOGICAL BULLETIN

Whatever the origin it is not unsafe to guess that the first part of the name was Ermen .. and the "N" was lost off. The "a" in the second part may have been a continental "u" . . . or even "o" with the umlaut."

But I didn't stop there. I asked "Who is the most learned man in the Library, and was sent to a Mr. Martel, Blexgian or French. He was at Luncheon, so I left a memorandum telling him what I had found, and what I couldn't find, and the next time I go in he may have some suggestions to offer. It seems a pity not to have the full name since it is so unique. Of course, it is extremely probable that the English clerk just put down what he thought he heard! Yet this won't do, because the then Armintrader remaimed married, had children, and appears of record here and there.

As for the change of name . . I think your theory rather wild. People probably got to calling him . . the one who changed the name . . . or accepted the change "Trader" for short . . and so it came about that he was so set down, or he was a boy, an orphan, ..and the Clerk setting him down made it Trader . . . and he accepted it, as a boy would. I do not think there was any deliberate change.

We will suppose the boy coming into another colony. "What's your name"? John or Richard, or Henry Armitrader" Trader? eh?" So he sets it down, and the boy not particularly learned accepts. It may have been at confirmation . . . or some church entrance.

This list of the Hundreds of the Counties of Maryland is only a beginning. Future search may revise it, and add some interesting information. Dr. Henry J. Berkley is the only person that I know of who has given the subject much thought. Mr. S. C. Taylor, Pittsburg, Pa. spent a lot of time endeavoring to locate the buundary lines of South Milford Hundred of Cecil County.

RICHARDSON BIBLE RECORDS
Contributed by William E. Richardson.
Woodward Building, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr Hayes: -

In explanation I may say two things.

First. I have the original letter from Richard Richardson Brown of Winchester, Virginia, dated in 1882, addressed to my Uncle Edgar Pierpoint Richardson stating that he did not have the Richardson family Bible but that it was in the possession of a Mrs. Burnside, the grand daughter of Mrs. Samuel P. Richardson, who also lived in Winchester, and that her daughter had copied the enteries in which she was interested and which were enclosed in the letter. Several years ago, after my uncle's death this letter was given to me with the enclosed copy of the enteries. I went to Winchester. Richard Richardson Brown had died many years ago but I met his son and grandson, the later also named Richard Richardson Brown. He told me that the Burnside family had moved to Baltimore; that he knew of the Bible and that they had taken it with them. This was also many years ago and he did not know the name or address of any of the family still living.

Second. The Richardson Richardson born December 11, 1707 mentioned in the first entry in this record was born at West River, Anne Arundel County. He was the son of William Richardson born at West River in 1667 and the grandson of William Richardson, the immigrant, who died in 1698. The wills of William, Junior and Senior are recorded at Annapolis. Ann Rebecca Wood,) twins, February 26, 1831 On the 10th. inst. by the Rev. Mr. Rolfe, Wm. A. Wood to Miss Alphonza Elizabeth Merriken, all of this city.

Copied from another bible owned by Henry Hobbs Wood written in his own handwriting, said Bible going to some other one of his descendants, is the following:

Baltimore, Sept. 12, 1814 — "The Battle was fought at North Point and commenced at one o'clock and continued one hour and a half. The American troops then shamefully retreated to the City of Baltimore and the British came within two miles of the City and then encamped for one day and one night, then retreated to their vessels.

The British Commander, General Ross, was killed by one of the riflemen in the beginning of the engagement. I saw him fall from his horse and I was immediately sent off by General Stricker with the information from him to our worthy General Smith, who acted prime upon receiving the message."

HENRY HOBBS WOOD BIBLE RECORD.

A letter from the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions, Washington, D. C., July 21, 1914, to Mrs. Edward W. Cooch, says in part:

"In response to your letter dated the sixth inst. you are advised that the records of this bureau show that Henry W. Wood served from August 19th. 1814, to November 23, 1814, as a private in Captain James Horton's Company of the Maryland Militia. (Cavalry) He was enrolled and discharged at Baltimore, Maryland where he resided in 1855, at which time he was sixty-five years of age."

A newspaper clipping in the Bible, undated, tells of Mr. Lafayette Wood being made Route Mail Agent, "at this place", but name not given, on the Cumberland Valley and Franklin Railroad.

Caroline Wood, "first child" married 1st. Samuel Atkinson of Baltimore and by him had one son, Samuel.

She married 2nd. January 13, 1841, Frederick Rawlings, born August 28, 1802, died November 25, 1851, by whom she had four children. Caroline died April 14, 1854.

QUESTION - Can any descendant of Henry Hobbs Wood, tell who were his parents and grand parents, and if there is Revolutionary service? Rebecca, his wife, was the daughter of Charlotte Barton who married John Ruth. Who were their parents?

MARYLAND HISTORY.

KENT COUNTY TAX COLLECTOR. 1

Robert Buchanan, Simon Wilmer of Edward and Henry Curry were securities for Thomas Jones, the Collector of the tax for Kent County, who died before the usual time for collecting, and on December 24, 1795, the three above named were empowered to collect the tax. Robert Buchannan was appointed Collector. Others who were securities were Thomas Ringgold and Michael Corse.

HARFORD COUNTY TAX COLLECTOR. 2

The same thing happened in Harford County as did in Kent, mentioned in the foregoing paragraph. Thomas Gibson, the late Sheriff of Harford County, died before collecting the taxes for his county, and Thomas Bond was appointed December 24, 1795. Thomas Bond and Henry Richardson were securities.

DEEDS AND PATENTS. 3

On Dec. 24, 1795 an act was passed authorising the Chancellor to grant deeds and patents in certain cases. Henry Hollingsworth had been agent for the State and bought land, the property of State debtors. These were afterwards sold by Randolph Brandt Latimer, present agent.

PATAPSCO BRIDGE. 1

It appears that sometime in the month of May last the public bridge over the falls of the Patapsco, on the old road leading from Baltimore-town to Fredericktown, by way of Ellicott's lower mills, being decayed, was broken down and destroyed; in consequence of which, wagons and other carriages, as well as travellers, at all times met with considerable difficulty in crossing the falls, which, in time of freshes were entirely impassable. Application was made to the commissioners to review the turnpike road in Baltimore County to build a bridge over the falls where the turnpike road is laid out to cross the Patapsco a small distance below the place where the old bridge stood, which they declined. Their funds being insufficient, Messrs Ellicott & Company erected a strong and substantial bridge over the falls where the old road crosses and the difference in distance is no more than tweny-two perches, and that it was built at a much less expense than a a bridge equally strong and substantial could be built over the falls where the new road is in tended to cross. This bridge was considered a part of the turnpike road and the commissioners were authorised to pay Ellicott & Company on December 24, 1795.

RELIEF OF THE POOR OF CALVERT COUNTY. 2
On December 24, 1795 an act was passed for the relief of the poor of Calvert County. The following persons were appointed trustees: John Somervell, John Rawling, Benjamin Hance, Jesse Jacob Bourne, Thomas Jenkins and Thomas Lyles.

Future issues of this Bulletin will contain historical items about people, and of events in which they participated. There are institutions which our ancestors organized and fostered which we intend to bring to light. This information is hidden away in old manuscripts and rare books. The title under which this section will run will be "Here and There in Maryland." Editor.

Notes and Queries

SHEPHERD NOTE

The ancestor to whom I trace is Francis F. Shepherd whose will was probated 1692, in Talbot County, Maryland, it is also recorded at Annapolis. He had a son William and daughters Ann, Mary and Elizabeth, all named in his will, and a sister Ann Evans and a brother Robert Norris. William, the son, had a son William. The second William had sons, John and Nathan and several daughters. From this John I descend. He was my great-great grand father and settled in what is now Brook County, West Virginia in 1794. The Francis Shepherd who died 1691 or 1692, had large tracts of land surveyed for him in Talbot County, Maryland. He was there as early as 1679. The names of some of his lands were: Shepherd's Forest, Shepherd's Fortune, Shepherd's Fold, Shepherd's Discovery, and many others, much of it is in Queen Anne's County, Maryland. Can any one add to this short account?

Verna J. Shingleton.

CHILDREN OF NOTE.

Scientists are now recommending the establishment of a new genealogy, in the collection of statistics of large and thriving families, in order to show respect to the parents of noteworthy children which such contribution of valuable assets to the national wealth richly deserves. This is a phase of genealogy which is beginning to command much attention, and the pedigree which can show a large per cent. of reputable middle class citizens is beginning to be valued quite as much as the one going back by a single line only, to some branch of titled nobility or royalty. (From "Our American Ancestry, Edited by William M. Clemmens, in the Baltimore American, 1920.)

Future numbers of this Bulletin will have some historical notes and notices that will help to make a family history interesting reading. They will show who their ancestors were, and what they did, and in some instances where the lived.

The Rent Roll of Lord Baltimore for Queen Anne's County show that on February 2nd, 1749, William Hughlett and Thomas Hughlett, his son, purchased 600 acres from John Baker on the north side of Choptank River, beginning near the land called Old Town. Edward M. Noble, in his "History of Caroline County, Maryland." states that William Hughlett came from Northumberland County, Virginia. (See page 100 of said history). William Hughlett settled near Greensboro, then in Queen Anne County. He died in 1771, in Queen Anne County, Maryland, and his will dated March 12, 1771, was probated, Aug. 1, 1771. - 3. Rebecca Hughlett, born October 26, 1789, died January 1, 1790

The following is taken from page 100 of the "History of Caroline County, Maryland," by Edward M. Noble, published in 1920:

"The Hughletts have figured largely both politically and financially in Caroline County ever since the first William Hughlett in 1759 arrived from Northumberland County, Virginia, and settled near Greensboro (Then Queen Anne's County).

"Thomas Hughlett, eldest son of this family came into political prominence at the time of the organization of our present county, by receiving the appointment as first sheriff; later he became Coroner, then a member of the Legislature,

"When the Revolutionary War broke out he entered the military service and was appointed a Captain of Caroline County Militia, and as such was active in the defence of the county, continuing in the service untill the end of the war. In later years he was Judge of the County Court, which position he held at the time of his death.

"Thomas Hughlett is buried in Caroline County, near Greensboro, and his tombstone reads as follows:

In memory of
THOMAS HUGHLETT
son of William Hughlett and
Mary his wife,

Who departed this life March 26, 1803, in the 65th year of his age. He was an affectionate husband, and tender parent, a kind master, a social and agreeable friend and an active industrious and enterprising citizen. He was honored by the free suffrage of Car-his fellow citizens with the office of sherrif of Caroline County, then Delegate to the General Assembly of Maryland; for many years a Justice of the Peace, and was at the time of his death one of the Associate Judges of the County Court. His integrity, justice and moderation has endeared his memory to the citizens of Caroline County. Let his witness be a reminder to his descendants to preserve. The faithful will be covered with fame and none but those who persevere will reap the fruits of labour.

This marble is a token of the great affection of his son William."

The various appointments above referred to may be verified by reference to the following volumes of the Archives of Maryland. Volumes 21, Pages 23, 172; 16, page 294; and 48, pages 27, 223.
